

ABSTRACT:

An electronic circuit and a method of generating an electrical discharge for an ionization detector system. The electronic circuit includes a transformer with a primary portion and a secondary portion. The circuit and method produce an electrical discharge across a set of electrodes. The discharge is stable over time and has relatively low peak currents associated therewith.

09910731-072401